Chosen artists and small business owners will be granted free or reduced leases for short-term placements or subsidized long-term lease funding, along with expert support in commercial space development, marketing, business planning, and lease negotiations. Private Property Owners

By making their vacant storefronts available, property owners can transform underutilized spaces into thriving centers of creativity and commerce. This collaboration not only enhances the aesthetic and economic appeal of the neighborhood but also strengthens community ties.

- Vacant Storefronts: Ideal for pop-up shops and small business activations. These spaces offer a tangible setting for entrepreneurs to test their concepts and engage with customers.
- Shared Artist Studios: Perfect for artist residencies, these spaces provide a collaborative environment where artists can create, showcase, and sell their work while benefiting from peer interactions and public exposure.
- Public and Private Outdoor Areas: Suitable for outdoor pop ups (booths), food truck parks and public art installations, these spaces allow for dynamic, open-air interactions and experiences that draw in passersby and enhance the street's atmosphere.
